

SIX TOWNSHIP MEN INDUCTED INTO ARMED SERVICE

Six men from Irvington, Newark, Centerville and Niles on Wednesday became the first from Washington Township to be called to duty with the armed forces under the provisions of the renewed Selective Service Act.

The six men are: James Lester Baker, Frank Escobedo and Frank Hernandez, all of Irvington; Anthony Dutra, Newark; Sangharu Nakamura, Niles, and Norval Peixotto, Centerville.

TO PRESIDIO

The draftees, all between the ages of 22 through 25, left the office of Selective Service Board No. 54 in Hayward via bus Wednesday for the Presidio in San Francisco, where they are to receive orders assigning them to army camps for training.

The local men are a part of the 43 inductees supplied by Board No. 54 as its September quota from Southern Alameda County. Although no induction quota has been received by Board No. 54 for October, M. W. Lewis, Centerville board member, said yesterday that the next group of inductees will probably be called to duty between October 20 and 30.

NOTICES BEING MAILED
In the meantime more and more men are being mailed orders to report for pre-induction physicals in preparation for their call to duty.

Lewis warned yesterday that youths intending to enlist in any of the services should do so before they receive their pre-induction physical examination notices. "Once a man has received his notice to report for physical examination he can no longer be accepted as an enlistee by any of the services," Lewis said.

TOWNSHIP FAMILY FEELS EFFECT OF KOREAN WAR

Another township family has felt the impact of the war in Korea. Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Irwin, who live on Santos Avenue, have received word that their son-in-law, First Lt. Sam Dewhurst, is hospitalized in Osaka, Japan, as the result of a bad leg wound, the extent of which is not definitely known. Prior to the leg injury the lieutenant had suffered an arm injury, as the result of embedded shrapnel.

The wounded man's wife is living in San Jose, but visits her parents here frequently. She is anxiously waiting for further news of her husband.

The affair was held at Nello's Cafe in Niles, and was attended by twenty-four employees and members of their families.

NILES WILL VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS

When the voters go to the polls next Thursday, Oct. 5, to vote on the proposed Niles school bond issue, there can be only one way to vote. That is, of course, "Yes."

The present school building is crowded beyond capacity. Students have had to be quartered this semester in the quonset hut on the school grounds that was originally intended to be used only for Scout activities.

The need for an additional school is already verging on desperation. School board members, foreseeing the need, have located a piece of property at the southern side of town that can be purchased at a fair price. The State Board of Education has approved the site. Now all that remains to be done is for the voters to give their stamp of approval by voting bonds to purchase the property.

To vote "No" on such an issue would be to sabotage the interests of our children. It would be a blight on the town itself.

ABANDONED WATER COMPANY BUILDING STUMPS GUESSERS

Last week's mystery picture in The Register's "Guess Where" contest "stumped" many of the experts with some 40 per cent of the telephone calls received failing to correctly identify the subject of the photograph.

Call after call wrongly identified the building in the picture as a dairy farm near Irvington. One man, certain that he had seen the building, but failing to recall its location, made a complete circuit of the township in his car before he eventually found the building.

IN FORGOTTEN COMMUNITY
The large building, located at what was formerly Union City, near Alvarado, housed the pumping equipment, filters and settling pools of the Eastbay Water Company. The plant was purchased by the Alameda County Water District in 1930 and has stood idle since shortly after that time.

The first person to telephone The Register last Friday morning and correctly identify the picture was P. D. Juhl, manager of the P. G. & E. office in Niles. It was only natural that Juhl should recognize the building, for he lived directly across the street from the water plant for 23 years.

The second $2.50 check, for being the twentieth person to phone and correctly identify the picture, was won by Dolores Maria, P. O. Box 23, Niles.

The first 20 calls were made by Juhl, Dolores Quartaroli, Niles; Mrs. Rose Stearns, Niles; Manuel Swartz, Niles; John Franco, Niles; Harry Cesari, Niles; John Brahmst, Niles; Ella Jolliff, Niles; Mrs. George Burr, Niles; Bea Hudgel, Niles; Mrs. Tony Rivers, Centerville; J. B. Christensen, Centerville; Mrs. Frank Cardozo, Irvington; Wayne Calhoun, Niles; Geraldine Rebello, Niles; Bernie Vail, Centerville; Joyce Lynch, Niles; Mrs. Bernard Vail, Centerville; Joe Hudson, Niles; and Miss Maria.

NEW PUZZLER
As in last week's contest, the first and twentieth persons to call The Register, Niles 3261 or 3271, and correctly identify this week's picture and its location will each receive checks for $2.50. No calls will be accepted before 9 a.m. When you think you know the answer to the picture puzzle phone The Register. It costs nothing to enter, but act promptly.

MAIL OVERSEAS YULE PACKAGES EARLY

Local residents planning to mail Christmas packages to servicemen overseas were cautioned this week to prepare their packages early to assure delivery by the Yule season.

Postmasters have warned that overseas packages to servicemen should be mailed between October 15 and November 15.

Parcels for delivery in Japan and Korea should be mailed as early as possible, preferably not later than November 1.

WORKMEN AT THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC depot at Niles, making a routine check of the water in the fire barrels around the railroad sheds, found one of the barrels contained an assortment of chrome automobile accessories.

The accessories, obviously stolen and cached away, were turned over to Vervais for an investigation and location of the rightful owner.

COUNTY PLEDGES AID IN CONTROL OF TRAFFIC HERE

Pledge of assistance in traffic control was received from two county departments this week by the Centerville Chamber of Commerce.

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley, in a letter to the Chamber, stated, "Relative to your request of August 23, I have a report from County Engineer Wallace Boggs to the effect that he has made a traffic survey and finds that the northerly portion of Thornton Avenue, a distance of 1800 feet from Highway 17, comes within the qualifications for a 25-miles-per-hour speed limit and our board has concurred in this action."

The letter went on to state that the remaining portion of Thornton Avenue, about 1.2 miles to the existing 25-miles-per-hour sign near the business section of Newark, does not qualify under state regulations to be made less than a 55 miles-per-hour zone.

MANY COMPLAINTS

The other pledge of assistance in traffic control came from Sheriff H. P. (Jack) Gleason.

Secretary Bill Chilcote reported that a representative of the sheriff's department had called on him and pledged the assistance of that office in traffic enforcement if it is requested from the Chamber.

Traffic law enforcement has formerly been handled solely by the California Highway Patrol. Complaints of speeding violations through their business districts by the Chambers of Commerce at Alvarado, Centerville and Irvington have brought the response by the highway patrol that they are under-manned in this area.

INVITED TO STORE OPENING

The Centerville Chamber passed a motion Monday at its luncheon meeting requesting the sheriff to instruct his deputies in this area to begin enforcing traffic violations.

Jack Coley, manager of the new Safeway Store now under construction on Fremont Avenue, extended an invitation to the Chamber members to be his guests at a preview opening of the new supermarket on Wednesday evening, October 18.

CACHE OF STOLEN GOODS DISCOVERED

Deputy Sheriff Henry Vervais of Niles has in his custody what can most definitely be described as a barrel of loot.

Workmen at the Southern Pacific depot at Niles, making a routine check of the water in the fire barrels around the railroad sheds, found one of the barrels contained an assortment of chrome automobile accessories.

The accessories, obviously stolen and cached away, were turned over to Vervais for an investigation and location of the rightful owner.

IRVINGTON COUPLE'S NEPHEW KILLED IN WAR

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Adams of Irvington received sad news this week with the announcement that one of their favorite nephews, Pfc. Melvin Wolfe, had been killed in Korea on September 3.

The 19-year-old soldier had been in Korea only a very short time. He had spent several furloughs with the Adamses in Irvington. The news of his death came as a great shock to his mother, Mrs. Jesse McGee of Warren, Ohio, whose only other son is a casualty of the last war and is still hospitalized.

COIT RE-ELECTED HEAD OF UNION SANITARY DISTRICT

A reorganization meeting of the newly elected directors of the Union Sanitary District was held last Friday evening at which George Coit of Centerville was elected president.

As the result of his re-election Coit begins his thirty-third year as head of the sanitary board, a position he has held since the original district was first formed in 1918.

The directors drew lots to determine the length of the terms to which they have just been elected. Coit, George Burr and S. G. Scott will serve the four-year terms and Manuel Bernardo and H. L. Scott drew the two-year terms.

The meeting also marked the first time that a board meeting was held in the district's new office building at Stevens and Baine streets in Centerville.

KIMBER FARMS ANNOUNCE NEW EXPANSION PLANS

As an indication of the rapid growth of the Kimber Poultry Breeding Farms, whose main office is here in Niles, an announcement came from the plant this week that a new plant will soon be located in Pomona.

Construction of the plant, which will be leased by Kimber's, has already started. The approximate cost of the plant and the equipment will run around $160,000, and the capacity for 1951 will be 376,000 eggs. The capacity, however, can be increased for future development.

Operations will be under the supervision of Arthur C. Kimber, son of the founder of the Farms, John Kimber.

Those in charge at Kimber's gave the following reasons for the establishment of the new plant: (1) reduces disease hazard by separating Atascadero breeding flock and Niles breeding flock; and (2) supplies the customers in Southern California without the necessity of long rail or air shipments. Due to shipping conditions delivery is being made directly to farms by truck.

The Niles plant will continue to be the head office. All pedigree breeding and genetic work will be done at Niles, and the Niles flock will not be reduced. The size of the flock will be increased so that the total capacity for 1951 will be 25 per cent above that of 1950.

Upon the completion of the Pomona place, tentatively set for December 1 of this year, some of the personnel will be transferred from Niles to Pomona.

TAREYTON VILLAGE HEARING DELAYED

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday allowed the request of the Middlefield Company for a "limited delay" in its appeal hearing concerning the approval of the Tareyton Village tract.

A spokesman for the company appeared before the supervisors and asked that they hold up action relative to negotiations which the company was making.

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley said yesterday that as far as he is concerned a "limited delay" means that the company must present its proposals to the board for acceptance or disapproval by next Tuesday.

Marvin Sherwin, attorney for the company, informed The Register yesterday that the company is negotiating with the city of Hayward. He said that the company still hopes to construct its own private sewage disposal plant.

However, the company is endeavoring to get Hayward to guarantee the operation of the plant.

MILLION DOLLAR BOND ISSUE MAY BE ASKED BY WUHS

The probability that Washington Union High School district might be forced to call an election on the issuance of approximately $1,000,000 in bonds was expressed this week by J. V. Gould, district superintendent.

Gould, the guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Centerville Lions Club, told the group that the present school plant, designed to accommodate 500 students, now has an enrollment of 750, with more students registering each day.

HUGE INCREASE SEEN

"With our present plant already bursting its seams, a survey of children now attending elementary schools in the township shows that the high school will have an enrollment of from 1,200 to 1,500 by 1955," Gould said.

Not included in the survey were the hundreds of new homes now under construction, which will bring many more transfer students into the district.

"Two weeks ago I thought we were in fairly good shape at the high school as far as housing students this year was concerned," Gould revealed. "However, during the past two weeks our enrollment has climbed over the 750 mark and it still is increasing."

He stated that the largest share of the current increase is from transfer students whose parents have moved into the district during the summer months.

LAST BOND ISSUE IN 1922

"We have been exceptionally fortunate in that we have kept abreast of the increase in enrollment up to this time without having to call on the taxpayers for a bond issue," Gould said. He revealed that the last bond issue for the district was a $150,000 issue voted in 1922. That debt has been cleared from the books. That issue provided the funds for the construction of the main administration building.

Since that time the new improvements added at the school without a bond issue include a $50,000 gymnasium, a $40,000 shop building, the renovation of the music building and the construction of the garage and cafeteria building through the use of WPA labor.

WILL USE CASH ON HAND

Gould went on to announce that plans are now being drawn for a new wing to the administration building, which would be used to house the commercial department. This proposed $100,000 annex will probably be constructed in the near future from cash reserves now on hand.

Badly needed, and most likely to be the first buildings constructed if and when the bond issue is authorized will be new shops, music building, homemaking unit, girls' gymnasium and an agricultural building. "These are our current major needs," Gould told his audience.

ROTARY SPEAKER DECRIES SOCIALISM

The plight of the English people under socialistic government was explained to the Niles Rotary Club at its regular Thursday luncheon at the International Kitchen by Malcolm M. Champlin, Oakland attorney, who last year spent several months in Europe. The speaker stated that the English people lack enough to eat, and that money spent in England under the Marshall Plan is used for making up deficits of the socialistic industrial operations rather than to improve the condition of the people.

"I hope and pray," he said, "that our friends and brothers, the English people, will rid from their minds this mental paralysis known as socialism. The people have hit bottom and are now learning the hard way that socialism is the greatest political fallacy of the age. Australia and New Zealand have already thrown out socialism and are on the way back."

Program chairman was John Brahmst.

BRIDEGROOM LOSES HONEYMOON MONEY

A Niles bridegroom-to-be is certain this week that he will be married on October 1 but whether or not there will be any rings and a honeymoon depend on his recovering his missing wallet containing about $600.

Clement Bedolla, 26, R.F.D. Box 243, Niles, reported Sunday that he had lost his money during a bus trip from Centerville to the home of his bride-to-be, Miss Lucy Ortega, 23, of 320 Seymour Street, San Jose.

The $600 was to have paid for engagement and wedding rings, as well as a honeymoon trip to visit his parents in Mexico City. Bedolla said he recalled having the wallet when he left Centerville by bus. After arriving at the San Jose depot, he boarded a city bus for the trip to Miss Ortega's home, where he discovered his loss.

The young couple is still hopeful of the return of the wallet. In the meantime the sorrowful Bedolla has been assured by his bride that the wedding will go on—as scheduled October 1—even if there are no rings or a honeymoon.

EVENING SCHOOL ADDS NEW CLASSES

Several new classes will be added to the courses of study offered by the Washington Evening School during the next two weeks, according to Principal Warren Gravestock.

The millinery class, sponsored by the high school P.T.A., will get under way on Monday between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Coach Clyde Voorhees' class in first aid will begin its sessions on October 9 and all who desire to receive their credentials are urged to enroll, as it is doubtful that this course will be offered a second time this year.

Also scheduled to open October 9 is the welding class taught by Louis Joseph.

The popular course in flower arrangement will get under way on Thursday, October 15, in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Juanita Massa of Hayward will conduct this class each Thursday between the hours of 1:30 and 4 p.m.

Gravestock also announced that several of the elementary school Parent-Teacher Associations have offered to sponsor courses in home nursing in their communities as soon as a sufficient number of registrations are received.

He also revealed that a considerable number of requests for a course in public speaking have been filed at the high school office and stated that as soon as the minimum number of 15 persons have requested the course it will be offered.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE MEETING DELAYED

The mass meeting which the Washington Township Chamber of Commerce had hoped to schedule in the near future for a discussion of civilian defense has been delayed by the resignation of B. C. Cheynoweth, county defense director.

President Dallas Paul, at Wednesday evening's meeting of the Chamber, held at the Decoto fire house, stated that the public meeting will be held following the appointment of a new director by county officials.

The delegates from the seven Chambers of Commerce voted unanimously to request the assistance of the sheriff's office in the enforcement of traffic laws in this area.

Gene Manning, Centerville, newly appointed executive secretary, was introduced by President Paul and announced that he had opened a township chamber office at 156 South Main Street, Centerville, phone 8-8916.

IRVINGTON ASKS SHERIFF'S AID

The members of the Irvington Chamber of Commerce, at their luncheon meeting Tuesday at Roethlin's Cafe, instructed their secretary, Clifford Rogers, to write to Sheriff H. P. Gleason, soliciting the aid of his office in traffic control.

A delegation from the Irvington Parent-Teacher Association attended the meeting to ask the assistance of the Chamber in promoting the forthcoming benefit whist party. The delegates from the P.T.A. were Mrs. Tom Pereira, president; Mrs. Joe Burned, ways and means chairman, and Mrs. Edward Haynes, past president.

Gene Manning, executive secretary of the Washington Township Chamber, was a guest at the meeting and spoke briefly.

COMMUNITY CHEST PARTY MONDAY

The annual Community Chest campaign opened here Monday with corps of volunteer workers starting their rounds of calls on business houses and residences to raise their goal of $7,525.

Mrs. Stella Benbow, campaign chairman, announced this week that the Chest drive had received one of the finest contributions possible, the offer of the free use of the Maple Hall Skating Rink and its staff of supervisors for one evening.

"Mr. Tom Clark, operator of the skating rink, has given us the evening of Monday, October 2, to stage a Community Chest Skating Party with all proceeds to go toward helping us attain our goal," Mrs. Benbow revealed.

The party will be held between the hours of 7 and 10:30 p.m. and will be supervised by Clark's regular assistants. Tickets may be purchased from any of the youngsters at the Youth Centers in the township or from Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. Admission will be 50 cents per person. Tickets may also be purchased at the hall.

"With such splendid cooperation as has been shown by Mr. Clark we should be able to reach our goal by the closing date of October 10," Mrs. Benbow concluded.

Thinking Things Over . . .

By VIVIAN BATMAN

Ever since I have been writing this column, people have come up to me, or have said over the phone, "I read your column."

All this time I have been trying to find a suitable answer to that one.

So they read my column, do they? Do they think it's bad, or good? They don't say. They just say, enigmatically, "I read your column."

I have thought of answering, in a pleased voice, "How nice!" But maybe they don't mean to be nice! Could be—how am I to know?—that they are saying it in a threatening manner. (I read your column. You'd better watch what you're saying after this.)

So perhaps I should say, apologetically, "Well, really, I didn't mean all I said in it."

On the other hand, perhaps they think they are conferring a great favor on me. ("I read your column. It's an effort, so I hope you appreciate it.")

In this case I should reply, "Oh, I'm truly grateful. But please don't think you have to do it every week."

It may be, too, that when they say, "I read your column," they are implying, "Really, if I couldn't do any better than that, I don't think I'd write."

So, in that case, my proper reply would be, "I'm sorry. Any time you want your money back on your subscription, I'll be glad to refund it."

I think you understand by now exactly what my problem is when people say, "I read your column."

If they would only please add something—anything at all—just so that I wouldn't be left in doubt even if you have to say, "It stinks," as to the proper reply! I mean, at least I'll know what answer to make—or will I?

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

I don't know how it is with your family, but in our family they could eat plain broiled hamburgers every dinner for a week and no complaints. But the minute I put a crust around a bit of hamburger, or cover it with a cabbage leaf, or disguise it with a bit of rice, to a man they glare at the innocent "surprise" dish in suspicion and ask, "What's this!", and thenceforth pick at it as though they expected to find pieces of strychnine buried in its midst.

How can a housewife every try those interesting new recipes that look so glamorous pictured in women's magazines, if the members of the family regard you as though you were a communist trying to slip an atomic bomb en casserole into the kitchen to blow up the joint!

FIRE AT IRVINGTON

The Irvington Fire Department was summoned to the Je Castro Ranch about 9 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a grass fire. The fire is believed to have started from sparks from the high voltage power line which crosses the property.

Michigan is the only state in America which is split completely into two large parts.

The FARMERS CORNER

by Ralph H. Taylor
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

Candidates for all elective offices are heading into the home stretch of their respective campaigns—and the perennial dilemma of the conscientious voter, how to use his ballot wisely for the best interests of his community, state, and nation, must soon be resolved.

The choice between candidates is often difficult, even in normal times, because of the very human tendency of political aspirants, whose immediate objective must be victory at the polls, to be all things to all men. In these grave times when vital issues confront the American people both at home and on the world scene, the responsibility of the voters for sound government leadership is heavy indeed.

Time was, a generation or so ago, when a wily candidate of limber conscience found it easy to be all things to all men. He could, for instance, promise farmers high crop prices and cheap farm machinery—then go to the city and promise industrial workers higher wages and cheap food. And get away with it. Those days, fortunately for the voters, are gone.

The radio and news wire services carry everything a major candidate says, no matter where or to whom he says it, to the entire electorate. The voter has the "break" now, in having access to reasonably accurate yardsticks for measuring candidate qualities—and most certainly he has the duty to use them carefully and with judgment.

PROMISES—RECORDS
Promises are the least reliable of all yardsticks—even when honestly made. Probably no sincere candidate has the desire to raise the cost of living for everybody in America—yet a sincere, but shortsighted and incompetent, office seeker might favor governmental procedures that could result in nothing else but higher living costs.

The thinking voter will weigh all promises very carefully—will think them through, even if the candidate has not done so!

A man's record provides the most rigid of all yardsticks. Not only is a candidate's record in public service (if he has held office previously) to be exhaustively studied, but his record as a private citizen. Has he been diligent and competent in the management of his own affairs—intelligent in judgments affecting his own welfare? If he has, that is a strong point—though only one point—for him. If he has not, the intelligent voter will hardly be inclined to entrust him with responsibility in public affairs.

Last, but by no means least, comes character. What kind of personal and public friends does the candidate under scrutiny have? What is the nature of organizations that have endorsed him—or opposed him? What kind of MAN he is—as well as what he has done and said in life—should be of importance to the people he asks to elect him.

BE YOUR OWN CANDIDATE!

Perhaps, in the last analysis, the voter can best assure the kind of public service he really wants in every public office by thinking out just what he himself would do if placed in that office—and then voting for the candidate who, in his opinion, would come nearest to discharging the duties of the office as he himself would discharge them.

If, on election day, all of us will do that, we should come fairly close to getting the kind of public servant most of us want. And if we fail to do that, we shall deserve the afflictions of whatever brand of public "service" that may be saddled upon us!

That Shining Metal was GOLD

By Lenoir Miller

In the early 1800s while man was busy building mighty industrial empires on the Eastern coast, the greater part of California was still in its primitive state. The Missions under the care of the Padres were the centers of civilization, and around these, small communities were built. Life was peaceful here and man was content, but soon the adventurous Americans appeared upon the scene.

In the early part of 1846, the United States and Mexico were at war. Commodore John Sloat, in July of that year, raised the Stars and Stripes at the Old Custom House in Monterey. General Mariano Vallejo, who was Commander of the Province of California, for the Mexican Government, was taken prisoner at his home in Sonoma by a group of Americans.

A detachment headed by Dr. Robert Semple, a captain under the Bear flag, was escorting the general to Sutter's Fort where he was to be held prisoner of war. While proceeding by boat along Carquinez Straits near what is now the city of Benicia, the doctor remarked to the general that such a place would be an ideal location in which to found a city.

When the general was coming back in and in a short while had erected two houses. Previously in 1846, Capt. Edward Von Pfister saw the coast of California and liked it so well that he decided to settle in the Semple again mentioned having a city in this location. In due time the general made by deed a gift of a certain portion of his holdings on Carquinez Straits to Capt. Von Pfister's old store in Benicia where the announcement of the discovery of gold in California was made. The store now stands on the corner of a lumber yard on the water front.

Mount Wilson... Utopia for Wild Creatures

Mount Wilson, an all-year paradise, where adequate meals and picturesque living accommodations are provided absolutely free... that is, for those timid little creatures of the deep forest, the scampering gray squirrel, the soft-eyed deer and her wobbly-legged fawn, the peace-loving blue bird and others who might perish but for the kindness of one man.

For the past 27 years, Albert C. Childs has been feeding birds and animals atop Mount Wilson, until now his domain is like an enchanted Walt Disney world where animals, birds and human beings are friends.

When Childs took over the management of the Mount Wilson Hotel Co. in 1922 he immediately became interested in the wild life of the area. By moving the feed boxes for the deer a little bit closer to the hotel each year he finally won their confidence. Today there are about 40 deer partaking of the hospitality much to the delight of the visitors at the hotel.

Vying for attention are the playful gray squirrels, who scamper among the trees, to take peanuts from the hands of the guests. Childs estimates he feeds the to the black-tailed mule deer year

A. You will buy a new car. Will our son ever stop his gambling? He is not only spending his money, but ours, too. Mr. E. J. J.

A. Your son has always shirked responsibility, and the best way to treat him is to let him be entirely on his own. He will settle down if he knows he can no longer depend upon you for money all the time. You have always been too easy with him.

Q. Will my husband get his job back? Could I apply for the old pension? I have arthritis and had to stop working. Mary S. Cochella.

A. Yes, your husband will be reinstated before long, but I sense that he will do something else in the meantime. You could get the pension. I know that you will feel much better and that you will take the job back. Could I apply for the old pension? I have arthritis and had to stop working.

Q. I am a senior in High School. Will I marry or have a career? Phyllis Mc. Sonora.

A. You will have both later on, but for the present you will continue your education, and then have a business of your own, later a home and husband.

Q. Will I get to live here or will we have to move back to our place of business? Will my husband and I ever be happy together? Will my home life improve? Will we ever get any oil on some property we own? Mrs. P. W. Camp Verde.

A. I do not sense a move at the present for you. Yes, you will come into a new understanding together and improve. Yes, by 1952 your husband will feel much better too.

Q. Will we sell our home to those people who are living in it, and will we get a fair price? Mrs. M. R. K. Laytonville.

A. No, there will be some other person buy it and at a good price, and I sense that it will be around October, so start telling everyone that you have this house for sale. Your husband will make good this year on his work, and he will know who to pull away on the job by the end of next month. You will raise your three children, and have one more, a little girl. You owe it to yourself to get out more to go to church, to visit friends, just take the time off... no one will ever miss it. You can't down a little on your many duties that overlap and no one will ever be the wiser.

Q. Will I marry the boy I am going with now? How many children? Marie K. Arcata.

A. Yes, you will have three children. Your sister's marriage will last.

The light touch is the right touch on the slim black crepe frock (left) designed by William Bass. It has an ice-blue, pure silk satin collar, spiked by a jet-encrusted blue button at the base of the V-neckline, a jet-encrusted pure silk satin tab is tucked in right hip pocket. Crompton's black-and-red velvet is used in William Bass-designed skirt and worsted wool jersey for the bodice (center). Round jet buttons sparkle on the skirt tab and on the box pleats of the softly-gathered skirt. Another Bass creation is sparkling, festive dress at right. It is of charcoal gray crepe, scattered with cut-steel beads. It is simple in styling. The white-leather hat is from the Florence Reichman salon.

Designer Tells Style Trends of Young Set

Young Miss America likes her clothes slim, trim and understated in the daytime, glamorous as all get-out at night.

That's the conclusion of Emily Wilkens, the youthful designer who started teenagers on their way to fashion recognition and now is turning her talents to dressing their elder sisters.

Miss Wilkens recommends no excess frillage on clothes for street, office or classroom. She stresses simplicity, clean lines and youthful cut, chooses fabrics that will stand the gaff, likes double-duty styles.

For wear after five, however, she shoots the works on bouffant skirts, gauzy fabrics and frivolous touches that make any girl feel young and gay.

Although Miss Wilkens shows many straight, slim skirts, she recognizes the fact that some figures need the camouflage of a little fullness below the belt, and adds a number of full or flared skirts to her collection.

The shirt and skirt for office or campus wear is a pet idea, and she does a series of stylish little shirts in pure silk twills with wing collars and string ties that are bound to win the heart of every girl who sees them.

Her convertible jumper is another style destined to endure itself to budget-conscious young women, since it goes to class or office demurely teamed with a blouse or sweater, goes dancing minus the blouse, with low neck and bare arms.

Longer Length Gloves Favored by Designer

Hide Wagner's showing of gloves emphasizes a trend toward longer lengths. Blond tones, complementing pastel shades in suits and dresses, are strongly evident. Chic and practicable are gloves with detachable cuffs and white pique. When patterned handbags or umbrellas — Miss Wagner features gloves with shiny patent trim.

Bedding Idea

The long bedspread that folds over pillows is a favorite style because it's a simple, one-piece cover-up for the whole bed. But for a dainty, ruffy bedroom you may feel it lacks something, and add extra ruffled pillows to decorate the headboard end of the bed. This new idea makes extra pillows unnecessary. As Earline Brice designs it, the bedspread is still one-piece and long, but at the point where the pillows begin there's a ruffle across the spread to outline the front pillow edges. This is a good example of how practical and pretty ready-made bedspreads will be this year.

Unusual Lighting

Taking advantage of the exposed fireplace chimney in the living room to create an unusual lighting effect and to add life to the drabness of the chimney is a trick being learned by many home owners.

At the ceiling line, place fluorescent tubing clear across the chimney and conceal the tubes with a valance board so that the soft, fluorescent glow is shed downward. If the bricks are red or brown, the light will take away their harshness, lighten up the wall and cast a pleasing pinkish light into the room.

The effect is especially attractive when the entire wall containing the fireplace is of brick. With this large expanse of brickwork, hang one or two growing plants in burnished copper pots against the wall. The fluorescent tubes above will be reflected from their metal containers.

To put still further life and color in the room, install asphalt tile flooring in color and design which appeal to you and which harmonize with the overall decorative plan. Black marbleized asphalt tile, marked off into large squares or diagonals by narrow white bands, is a smart, modern treatment. An occasional light waxing with water emulsion will keep the floor shining under the fluorescent light on the chimney.

Low Flower Border Frames View of Modern House

A new type of planting is required for modern homes, one-story, without high basements, with main floor only one or two steps above ground level.

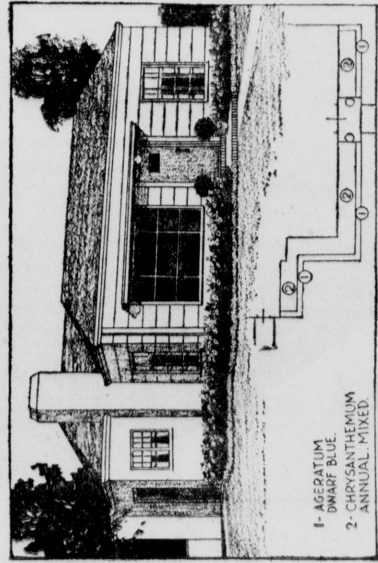

Tall shrubs and evergreens used in "foundation" planting grow too high for these low houses, making them seem lower, and eventually hiding them from view and shutting the sunshine and view out.

Landscapeing should frame the house and emphasize its good points. A low house should never be dwarfed by tall plants before or around it; and a small house should not be made to seem smaller. Only low plants should be used in front of low modern houses.

These effects can be well achieved by annual flowers; and the fashion for flowers in the front yard is spreading rapidly. An example of the effect which they produce is given in the illustration. On either side of the points. There are many other combinations which could be used in a similar way to produce a pleasing effect, in harmony with the colors of house wall and roof. In planting near modern houses, simple color schemes, two, not over three, harmonious colors, are usually considered best. Any of the sun-loving annuals which grow to a suitable height may be used on the east, west and south sides of houses; but on the north varieties which

At the LIBRARY

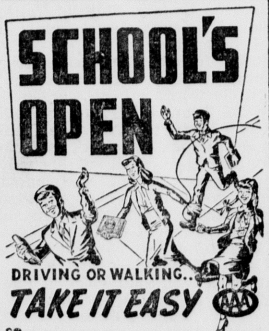

By ELAINE HOWE

One of the favorite quotations from poetry in one by Emily Dickinson and it starts, "There is no frigate like a book to take us lands away." Since I love to read and it's also my job to read books, that line appeals to me. I've been traveling lands away recently, and I should like to recommend several new novels of far places to you.

First is "White Witch Doctor" by Louise Stinetorf. She says it's purely fictitious, but it has the ring of truth. It is the story of a midwestern American woman who, at the age of forty, finally found herself free of family bonds, and able to realize her dream to go to Africa. Despite many obstacles she succeeded in going out as a medical missionary having taken her nurse's training after the age of forty. This is the story of her 25 years in the Congo, ministering to the sick bodies of the natives, and meeting the most amazing situations with great aplomb. It is a warm and human story.

Another tale of distant lands is by still another missionary—Grace V. Payne. Her book, "The Unveiling," shows the life of a modern woman of Iran. Married at an early age, the girl, Esmat, gently reared and devoted to her Mohammedan faith, finds herself forcibly modernized along with all the women of her country. The Shah introduced many reforms and changes among which was the stripping off of the women's customary veils. Bowed to misfortune and disgrace, Esmat nevertheless emerges a modern, courageous woman, who supports her family and encourages all around her. The picture of Persian home life is most interesting.

The next book travels half way across the world to Alaska. It is called "Top of the World," and is a story of an Eskimo man—Ernekek. He is a great hunter and in his simple way a happy man. There is humor aplenty as Ernekek woos his bride—although the wrong one—and later raises a family. Some of the customs Eskimos take quite for granted will pop your eyes wide open and make you gulp a bit. Though fictional, it's based on fact—such as the Eskimo who ate his own frozen feet in order to survive—and did!

BANTAMS WIN IN CAGE OPENER

The Washington High School C and D basketball squads opened their cage season Tuesday on the Bellarmine maples in San Jose with two victories.

Coach Don Wolfe's D squad, last season's S.C.V.A.L. champions, outpointed their opponents 28 to 21, while his C squad chalked up a 23 to 18 victory.

Vizcarra paced the D's with 13 points to lead the offense while Velarde played a bang-up defensive game, controlling the rebounds for the Washington lads. The Bells led 4 to 3 at the end of the first quarter but were quickly passed by the locals and never again held the lead.

Andrade, center, and Romero, a substitute forward, saved the day for the C squad by accounting for 18 of the squad's 23 points.

The Washington squad was in constant control of the lead throughout the game.

CURTAIN RAISES ON HUSKIE GRID SEASON TONIGHT

The 1950 football season will make its debut tonight (Friday) at Washington Union High School when the Huskies and the Puppies take the field under the lights of Memorial Stadium for a twin-game against the Poly Tech High reserves of San Francisco.

Coach Irv Hird's 30 squad, many of them seasoned veterans from last year's championship S.C.V.A.L. squad, will be pitted against their city opponents in a game scheduled for 6 p.m.

At 8:15 Coach Jud Taylor's Huskies will swarm onto the field to raise the curtain on their grid season.

The Huskies are expected to test their aerial assault, which should develop into their biggest ground gainer. Coach Taylor has three outstanding passers in the backfield, fullbacks Jack Bribes and George Pagan and Southpaw Sabe Elizarrey, halfback. Comprising the other half of the passing attack will be George Silveira and Paul Zeisse, rangy ends.

Tonight's game will prove a testing ground for the comparatively green center of the Huskie line. The Huskies will utilize a double wingback formation with Joaquin Preciado calling the plays.

Coaches Taylor and Clyde Voorhees are hopeful of being able to use as many of their untied reserves as possible in tonight's game in preparation for their league opener October 6 at Santa Clara.

DUCK BANDED IN CALIF. IS SHOT IN ALASKA

Eighteen years later, and 2500 miles away, a duck banded by a member of the Newman Gun Club has been reported as part of an Alaskan hunter's bag.

In 1933, Egbert R. Jones of Cares banded a male pintail at the Alameda County Hunting Club. John V. Struck of Ugashik, Alaska, shot the duck near his home late last year.

Metal leg bands are placed on the legs of waterfowl by the California Division of Fish and Game, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and cooperating sportsmen's clubs. Returned bands are important in studying bird migrations, life span and other biological factors.

PAGING RIPLEY!

The granddaddy of all mushrooms was brought into The Register office Wednesday by Tony Costa of Niles.

The king-size mushroom measured 22 inches in diameter and was eight inches thick. It had completely encased the bottom of a small pine tree which stood up out of the center of the plant some 18 inches.

The mammoth growth was brought here from Modoc County by Henry Marshall and John Enos of Niles who found it while on a deer hunting trip.

MUSGROVE HEADS SPORTSMEN'S CLUB

Clarence Musgrove was elected chairman of the Niles Sportsmen's Club at the annual election of that organization held Tuesday evening at Boliba Hall in Niles.

Other officers named were: Reginald Calhoun, vice-chairman; Walter Jones, secretary; Joe Dooley, treasurer; Clarence Pine, sergeant-at-arms; Glenn Mohn, William Pine Jr., Joe Perry and Past Chairman Joe Pine, directors.

The new officers announced preliminary plans for their annual Turkey Shoot to be held at the club grounds on the Mission-Niles Highway on November 12. Al Gamba was named chairman of the shoot and will select members of the club to serve as aides.

It was voted to postpone the fishing derby, originally scheduled to take place in October. It will be rescheduled at a later date.

IRVINGTON CLUB ENDS DIAMOND SEASON WITH WIN

The Irvington Merchants closed their 1950 baseball season Sunday on the Centerville diamond with a 9 to 4 victory over the strong Jefferson Club of San Francisco.

Manager Frank Mayer's club opened the game with a batting spree that netted them four runs in both the first and second innings, combining seven singles with three walks and four San Francisco errors. In their eight innings at the plate the Irvington lads banged out 14 hits, all singles, while Tony Dutra held the visitors to nine scattered singles.

Centerfielder Bud Marshall and Rightfielder Clarence Soito led the Irvington onslaught with Marshall getting four hits for five times at the plate and Soito having a perfect day of 3-for-3.

Sunday's game closed a 26-game season for the Irvington club, giving them a season's record of 15 wins and 11 losses, an impressive record considering the competition they were pitted against.

Tony Rogers, scorekeeper for the Irvington club, revealed this week that the men who had played in ten or more games ended the season with a team batting average of .318, an impressive percentage in anybody's league.

Individual season's batting averages, for players who saw action in ten or more games, are as follows:

MOVE TO SAN JOSE

Miss Ann Untiedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Untiedt, has moved to San Jose during the week to attend State College there. We will see her around town no doubt on the week-ends. Lawrence Fernandez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chambers, has also returned for his second term at State where he is majoring in athletics.

Mr. Eugene Olwell of the Berry Farm here in the Mission, went to Washington—Seattle to be exact—to be with his wife and two daughters who are getting set for the winter session at Women's College there.

TO SACRAMENTO

Mrs. Sally Souza and two of the youngsters went as far as Sacramento by car and then on by bus to Marysville where they are spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Alice Catalano, formerly of the Mission.

ALSO TO SACRAMENTO

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vargas and son, Richard, motored to Sacramento over the week-end where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Burt and daughter, Katherine. They really live in Citrus Heights, north of Sacramento.

Miss Carol Galena of Oakland was a week-end house guest at the home of Maureen Buford on Vallejo Street.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRANT

Mrs. Zoea Neeley of San Jose and her two youngest, Helen and Rita, spent Tuesday afternoon at Helen's Fountain where Jo, the other half of the ownership, celebrated his birthday. I'm speaking of Joe Semas.

3,000 MILE JAUNT

Frank Dias and Joseph Telles Sr. have just returned from a very wonderful vacation spent seeing all points of interest from Mission

San Jose south along the coast into Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Utah (they promised to bring back some of Brigham Young's followers for the bachelors of the Mission, but guess they just couldn't lasso any) and back into California. They covered nearly 3000 miles in their little vacation journey.

FUN, BUT—

Ann and Ernie Henriques returned from their hunting and fishing expedition minus. Just like all the rest they had a lot of fun and a lot of hiking but those deer sure stayed in the bush.

LOCAL MEN ON WARREN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Three Washington Township men have been named to serve in committee roles in the current campaign to re-elect Governor Earl Warren, according to Joseph A. Murphy and Ernest Vernon, co-chairmen of the Alameda County Warren for Governor Committee.

Localities who will head the campaign in this area are Judge Allen G. Norris, Centerville, and Leon Solon and Vernon Ellsworth, Niles.

Headquarters of the Warren for Governor Committee were opened this week at the State Theater Building, 1320 Broadway, and at 4442 East Fourteenth Street, Oakland.

PERPLEXED BY FALSE RUMOR

When a former patient walked into Dr. John J. O'Connor's office in Newark one day last week and asked what other doctor in the township he would recommend, the doctor thought it unusual.

Two days later when a mother-to-be asked what other local doctor he would suggest taking over her care, Dr. O'Connor was perplexed.

When a third patient called at his office to make the same inquiry the doctor was perturbed and asked why his patient was not satisfied.

"Oh, it isn't that, but since you are going back into the army right away I wanted to get your recommendation," was the reply.

"But I am not going back into the service," the doctor answered.

"Why you must be—everybody is saying so," replied his patient.

With a sigh of relief Dr. O'Connor outlined to his patient how he had served in the army for two years and thus was far down the line of priority in the order that doctors are to be recalled into the service.

"I feel as safe as any other doctor in saying that I will be around here for a good long time yet," he concluded.

NEWARK LANDMARK IN NEW LOCATION

One of the old landmarks of Newark—a massive two-story barn that has dominated the section west of Newark for the past 80 years—is on the move.

Old-timers in the area will be interested to know that this building was constructed in the early 70's by George Baker, a master draftsman from Novo Scotia. It is framed in 8x8 timbers, mortised and dovetailed from foundation to roof. These timbers are almost as sound as when they were put in.

Mr. Hinton, of Hinton Bros., Hayward house movers, says the barn is the best constructed building he has ever moved, and would cost $20,000 to duplicate today.

The barn will be moved down to the Arthur Haley feed lot, placed on a concrete foundation, receive a new roof and minor repairs, and "will be good for another eighty years or more of service," according to Mr. Haley.

RITES TUESDAY FOR M. J. CORREIA

Funeral services were held in Alvarado Tuesday for Manuel J. Correia, 84, who died in an Oakland hospital on Saturday.

He was a native of Fayal, Azore Islands, but had spent most of his life in Alvarado, where he was a member of U.P.E.C. No. 16.

He was the uncle of Antone L. Costa, Decoto, Lawrence and Edward Costa and Mrs. Frank Pine of Newark.

Funeral services were held from the parlors of the Chapel of the Palms in Centerville, followed by a requiem mass at St. Anne's Church. Interment was at Holy Ghost Cemetery, Centerville.

TOWNSHIP MOVES FORWARD

Like Sleeping Beauty being awakened after a long slumber by a kiss from Prince Charming, so is Washington Township—at long last—being awakened by the kiss of Progress.

Some call it the kiss of death.

They are the ones who cling tenaciously to the "what's-good-enough-for-grandpa-is-good-enough-for-me" philosophy. They are the "isolationists." They want Washington Township to remain aloof from the surge of progress going on all around it. They decry the need for progress. "We built our home here because we wanted the peace and contentment of rural living," they say. "Our fathers lived here; our grandfathers settled here. We like things to stay the way they are. Why can't they let us alone?"

In spite of their desire to preserve the status quo, however, Progress has finally caught up with the Township. It is sweeping down like a tremendous tide from Oakland, passing Hayward, and now, at last, is engulfing the Township.

And, like any tide, it touches everything in its wake. The Township could not escape it.

Make no mistake, Progress IS here. You have only to take a tour around the Township to see evidences of it on all sides. Sewer lines laid out, water mains being dug, subdivisions springing up all over like mushrooms, business structures being built, roads being readied for improvement—these are things that you can see.

Behind all these tangible signs is an upsurge in the activities of the water districts, the fire districts, the school districts, the sewer districts. District board members are scurrying around making hurried plans for increased population, realizing that they can wait no longer.

What does this mean for the Township? Is it good, or bad?

Since, as we have already said, it is inevitable, we may as well forget the

RED CROSS MAKES PLEA FOR BLOOD

Red Cross officials in the East Bay area this week asked for blood for Korean casualties.

Thousands of pints of whole blood and plasma are urgently needed, not only in Korea but in the military hospitals here in our western states.

You can give blood by telephoning the Alameda County Medical Association, which is collecting and processing blood for the Red Cross in the East Bay, for distribution overseas and to military hospitals, or by calling the Blood Bank, Glencourt 2-2840 and making an appointment. The need is urgent.

bad, and dwell on the good side of it. Let some old-timers, if they will, deplore Progress. The rest of us will not try to buck the tide but will go along with it, knowing that, by the law of compensation, we give up some things only to gain others of equal or greater value. Certainly we pay for sewers, but we're saved the countless number of sleepless nights wondering what to do about that old septic tank. So do we pay for additional schools, and public services, but at the same time our property values go up.

The sight of our orchards giving way to subdivisions and business buildings elicits sympathy for those who, in the days past, made this the great agricultural area it became. But those pioneers—hardy souls that they were—would have been the last to stand in the way of Progress, and the first to say, "Don't take a backward glance. Move with the times. Different times bring different opportunities."

Thus it would behoove all of us to be good friends of this stranger, Progress, who has appeared somewhat suddenly in our midst. If you can't go so far as to put out the welcome-mat, at least you can show a smile of cordiality. You might even come to like this unwelcome stranger!

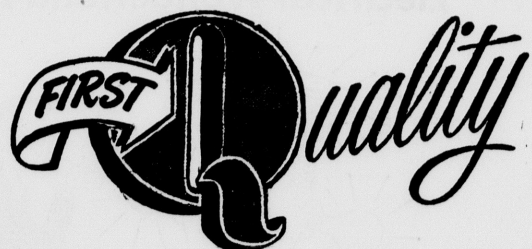

No amount of wishing is going to make you sixteen again. And nothing you can do will keep Washington Township the somnolent, quiet rural community it was in the Gay Nineties.

So relax, and move with the tide.

PRICE SUPPORT PROGRAM FOR 1951 BARLEY CROP

The Production and Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture this week announced that the price of 1951 barley crop will be supported under permissive provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1949, through farm storage and warehouse storage loans and purchase agreements made available by the Commodity Credit Corporation. The loans and purchase agreements will be available from harvest time through January 31, 1952.

The price level at which the 1951 barley crop will be supported will follow later in the program year.

Deer Hunting— But No Deer

Though ostensibly on a deer-hunting trip, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Marks of Mission San Jose, visiting friends on a 3,000 acre ranch near Alturas, had no luck with the deer, but had a wonderful time in spite of the lack of venison. "As a matter of fact," said Mrs. Marks, "a deer would have had to come right up and sit on my husband's lap before he would have seen it, as he was so busy eating that wonderfully thick cream they had there, and enjoying the other delicious ranch fare."

On the return trip they stopped off by the Feather River, and again Mr. Marks got side-tracked from hunting by exploring about the many natural beauties of the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Fontes joined the Marks at Feather River, going up on the Zephyr, and the two couples came home together by way of Lake Tahoe. The Fontes, too, had a wonderful time as, for the first time in their lives, they went trout-fishing, with wonderful results.

IMMEDIATE NEED FOR DEFENSE TRAINING CITED

The failure of communities of Alameda County to make any "operative progress" toward an emergency defense plan was criticized this week by B. G. Chynoweth, brigadier general, retired, director of civilian defense for Alameda County.

In his report, filed at the conclusion of his second month as defense director, General Chynoweth stated, "Civilian defense, like any other democratic defense, belongs to the public, and can never be operative until the public is informed and trained."

"From the beginning there has been argument that we must delay action in the county to integrate in federal and state plans. This seems a fundamental misconception. Organization should be integrated from the bottom."

BLOCK WARDENS NEEDED

The director stated that we should proceed at county level to do things which are most time-consuming, and which depend wholly on our local realities. Of these he listed as foremost the organization and training of the public under their own block wardens, and the development of operative procedures which would result from the training of control center staffs.

"Many planners are pinning their hopes on the general assurance of mutual-aid agreements. The principal of mutual aid is indeed the essence of disaster planning," the general stated. "However, the bare agreement is merely a gesture unless it is implemented by the development of expert control center staffs who will know how to make the agreement work."

He cited as an example that eleven men might sign an agreement for mutual aid in a football game, but until they have been put through the long, intricate system of training, their agreement in principle would be of slight value.

SCHOOLS WIN PRAISE

The general continued, "I am not responsible for the political and jurisdictional side of civilian defense. I am serving solely because of my organizational and disaster experience. Because of that experience I question the theory that jurisdictional boards or councils can effectively plan or direct operative procedures for major war disasters. A board can be created over night. An operative staff could scarcely be thoroughly developed in a year of training."

The school systems in the county won the praise of the defense chairman with what he termed "a most intelligent understanding of our problem and a desire to co-operate on an over-all basis that could be an example for all of us."

In citing the need for block wardens the general said that they are needed to cooperate with the police, Red Cross, schools, fire service, medical service and many others. He stated that if they did nothing more than keep their group out of their automobiles and off the streets they would justify their existence.

In summing up the immediate needs, General Chynoweth recommended that control staffs and block wardens be organized and trained, commencing now, as a long-term project for the troubled years.

He further recommended that defense planning be "jealously protected" from political influence.

TRUCK DEMOLISHES SERVICE STATION

A large truck and trailer loaded with sheets of metal completely demolished the Flint's Service Station at the southeast corner of Machado's Corner near Centerville at 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Douglas R. Oliver, Oakland, driver of the truck, told officers that he was forced to swerve the vehicle to avoid crashing into another truck which had the highway blocked.

Oliver, southbound, swerved his truck into the filling station, completely wiping out the two pumps and canopy, and then swerved back onto the highway.

The two metal gasoline pumps, metal canopy and its supports, were rolled up into a ball by the impact. The Centerville fire department was summoned to safeguard against the gasoline-soaked area bursting into flames.

Oliver escaped injury and the front of his heavy truck was only slightly damaged.
